12 money, assets, or property of an eligible adult; or

13 (2) Any act or omission taken by a person, including through the use of a power 14 of attorney, guardianship, or conservatorship of an eligible adult, to:

15 (a) Obtain control, through deception, intimidation, or undue influence,

10      adult.
- 11      4. A qualified individual who in good faith and exercising reasonable care discloses 12      information under this section is immune from administrative or civil liability that might 13      otherwise result from disclosure or for any failure to notify the customer of the 14      disclosure.
- 15      5. a. A broker-dealer or investment adviser may delay a disbursement from an account 16      of an eligible adult or an account on which an eligible adult is a beneficiary if:
- 17           (1) The broker-dealer or investment adviser reasonably believes the requested 18           disbursement may result in financial exploitation of an eligible adult after 19           initiating an internal review of the requested disbursement and the 20           suspected financial exploitation; and
- 21           (2) The broker-dealer or investment adviser:

- 3           (1) A determination by the broker-dealer or investment adviser that the 4           disbursement will not result in financial exploitation of the eligible adult; or
- 5           (2) Fifteen business days after the date on which the broker-dealer or 6           investment adviser first delayed disbursement of the funds, unless the 7           department of human services or the commissioner requests the broker-
8           dealer or investment adviser extend the delay, in which case the delay 9           expires within twenty-five business days after the date the broker-dealer or 10           investment adviser first delayed disbursement of the funds unless the delay 11           is terminated by either of the agencies or an order of a court of competent 12           jurisdiction.
- 13           c. A court of competent jurisdiction may enter an order extending the delay of the 14           disbursement of funds or may order other protective relief based on the broker-15           dealer, investment adviser, or other interested party's petition that initiated the 16           delay under this section.
- 17           6. A broker-dealer or investment adviser who in good faith and exercising reasonable 18           care complies with this section is immune from any administrative or civil liability that 19           may otherwise arise from a delay in disbursement in accordance with this section.
- 20           7. A broker-dealer or investment adviser shall provide access to or copies of records that 21           are relevant to the suspected or attempted financial exploitation of an eligible adult to 22           the department of human services and to law enforcement, either as part of a referral
23           to the department or to law enforcement, or upon request of the department or law
24           enforcement pursuant to an investigation. The records may include historical records 25           and records relating to the most recent transaction that may comprise financial 26           exploitation of an eligible adult. Any record provided to the department of human 27           services or law enforcement under this section is an exempt record under chapter 28           44-04. This section does not limit or otherwise impede the authority of the 29           commissioner to access or examine the books and records of a broker-dealer or 30           investment adviser as otherwise provided by law.
