REMARKS OF ARIANNA WALKER
MISS NORTH DAKOTA

It is an honor to address you this morning during your busy special session.

I know you have important work to do. I've been following the issues you will be dealing with this week and, to be honest, I don't envy you. It is a difficult task and I know I would not want to take this on, but that's why I'm doing into physical therapy and not politics!

However, as your Miss North Dakota, I am a state representative, and I have to be aware of what is going on.

In driving across our great state, I have seen, firsthand, the impact of flooding on my community, Minot, and others. Like you, I have hauled sandbags and moved people back and forth. I am glad you are considering funds to help them re-build their homes and make repairs to local infrastructure.

As the headquarters for the Miss North Dakota Scholarship Organization are in Williston, I have made many trips to the Western part of the state and seen the impact of the oil boom there, from the man camps popping up, to the roads wearing down.

I will also be interested in your decision on the federal health care exchange issue, as I am a pediatric PT student at University of Mary.

In my travels to eastern North Dakota, I have visited to the Ronald McDonald Houses there, and the Children's Miracle Network Hospital at Sanford.

These charities are near and dear to my heart. Ronald McDonald House is my platform, and I want to thank you for the state funding to help launch North Dakota's first dental Caremobile for children this January.

Children's Miracle Network Hospitals is the official charity of Miss America. If I'm fortunate to represent our country, I would promote BOTH organizations, because one helps sick and injured children; the other helps the families of these children by providing food and shelter during long hospital stays.

In closing, I would ask you to think "positive thoughts" for me during my week of competition in Las Vegas starting January 9th. I will compete live on ABC Saturday, January 14th.

We, as North Dakotans, have been in the news spotlight a lot this year. I'm ready to show them what we embody as a state: intelligence, character, hard work, community service, faith, values, and compassion for those in need.

Thank you very much for your time today.
