

TITLE 13
DEBTOR AND CREDITOR RELATIONSHIP

CHAPTER 13-01
GENERAL PROVISIONS

13-01-01. Definitions of creditor and debtor.

In this chapter, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires:

1. "Creditor" means one in whose favor an obligation exists by reason of which the person is or may become entitled to the payment of money.
2. "Debtor" means one who, by reason of an existing obligation, is or may become liable to pay money to another, whether such liability is certain or contingent.

13-01-02. Debtor's contract valid in absence of fraud.

In the absence of fraud, every contract of a debtor is valid against all of the debtor's creditors, existing or subsequent, who have not acquired a lien on the property affected by the contract.

13-01-03. Creditors may be preferred.

Except as otherwise provided in section 13-02.1-05, a debtor may pay one creditor in preference to another, or may give to one creditor security for the payment of that creditor's demand in preference to another.

13-01-04. Marshalling funds - Rights of creditors.

When a creditor is entitled to resort to each of several funds for the satisfaction of the creditor's claim and another person has an interest in, or is entitled as a creditor to resort to, some but not all of them, the latter may require the former to seek satisfaction from those funds to which the latter has no such claim so far as it can be done without impairing the right of the former to complete satisfaction and without doing injustice to third persons. This section does not apply to execution sales of real estate mortgage foreclosures.

13-01-05. Transfers with intent to defraud or delay creditors are void.

Repealed by S.L. 1985, ch. 186, § 12.

13-01-06. Transfer of personalty without changing of possession or filing of instrument presumed fraudulent.

13-01-07. Instruments affecting realty void when made with intent to defraud - Good-faith purchaser protected.

Repealed by S.L. 1985, ch. 186, § 12.

13-01-08. When act of debtor void for fraud.

Repealed by S.L. 1985, ch. 186, § 12.

13-01-10. Fraudulent intent a question of fact.

In all cases arising under the provisions of this chapter, the question of fraudulent intent is one of fact and not of law. No transfer or charge may be adjudged fraudulent solely on the ground that it was not made for a valuable consideration.

13-01-11. Fraudulent conveyance - Penalty.

Any person who is a party to any conveyance or assignment of any interest in real or personal property entered into with intent to defraud prior or subsequent purchasers, creditors, or other persons except those with security interest in the property involved, who knowingly participates in such a conveyance or assignment, is guilty of a class A misdemeanor.

13-01-12. Removing or disposing of property to defraud creditors - Penalty.

Every person who removes any of the person's property from a county with intent to prevent a levy thereon under execution or attachment, or who secretes, assigns, conveys, or otherwise disposes of any of the person's property with intent to defraud any creditor or to prevent the property from being made liable for the payment of the person's debts, and every person who receives any property with such intent, is guilty of a class A misdemeanor.

13-01-13. Unlawfully preferring creditors - Penalty.

Every person who, knowing that the person's property is insufficient for the payment of all of the person's lawful debts, shall assign, transfer, or deliver any property for the benefit of any creditor or creditors upon any trust or condition that any creditor shall receive a preference or priority over any other creditor, or with intent to create such a preference or priority, is guilty of a class A misdemeanor. This section does not apply to the giving or creating of preferences expressly allowed by law.

1. A creditor may charge, receive, and collect a late payment charge on all money due on account from thirty days after the obligation of the debtor to pay has been incurred. A creditor may assign an account receivable that is subject to this section.
